Lies of the Desperadoes

The Advertiser of yesterday says that Simon Cameron is the prince of plunderers,—that he has been suffered to resign with the millions coined from the heart's blood of the people—that Lincoln has been in league with the swindler;—that Clay is a coward and has been recalled to the field, not of war, but of plunder;—and that the Republican leaders are preparing at Washington to abandon the Union!

The object of the Advertiser by publishing these notorious falsehoods, is to do its best to break down the Government—hoping that its party will rise on its ruins

Simon Cameron, in answer to a question, after he had resigned the office of Secretary of War, said that he had had no interest, directly or indirectly with any contract for furnishing supplies to Government, and had not received in any form or manner one cent arising from any Government contract

Believing this statement to be true, the United States Senate, without opposition, endorsed and consented to his appointment as Minister to Russia.

Mr. Lincoln had entire confidence in the patriotism and fidelity to public trust of Mr Cameron, and nominated him to the Senate for the important position of Minister to Russia The letter which the Advertiser publishes as written by Mr. Lincoln is a detestable forgery. Mr. Cameron resigned the office of Secretary of War, because he disagreed with Mr. Lincoln on the slavery question—Mr Cameron being in favor of giving freedom to slaves, while Mr Lincoln's policy was to protect the Constitutional rights of loyal slave holders.

This is the first time that we have ever heard the charge of cowardice applied to Cassius M. Clay. He is notoriously in brave man. In all conditions of life in which he has been placed, he has evinced bravery When he was taken prisoner in Mexico, no one was then heard to impute to him a want of courage. When in defence of the rights of free speech, he was attacked with pistols and bowie-knives, by the family of Turners, in Kentucky, he drove them from the ground, single handed, one of them wounded unto death, and the other glad to escape from his valiant arm When in Frankfort, he was forbidden by a mob to make a public speech, in defiance of armed men, he armed himself, and made that speech, the effects of which are even now felt in glorious Kentucky

We happen, at this moment, to fall upon the anecdote of Mr Clay's revenge upon Tom Marshall, who headed a mob against him in Lexington, in 1846 Capts Clay and Marshall commanded companies in the War in Mexico. While there, Clay referred to the act we have mentioned, in presence of the whole regiment He then proposed to settle all old accounts with Marshall on the spot with broadswords, but Marshall pleaded it would embroil the regiment Thereupon Clay most bitterly replied, that "Marshall, at Lexington, did not fear to embroil, by his inflammatory appeals, the people in an affray where women and children were endangered but here, where the two met on equal terms, where men wore swords, with war as their profession, he feared to embroil others! It was the plea of a paltroon and assassin." The next day Marshall, drunk as usual, when in difficulty, tried to drown himself and his mortification in San Juan river

It properly becomes such a thing as writes himself editor of the Advertiser to charge Cameron and Lincoln with crimes, which, if true, ought to cause them to be hung, and Cassius M Clay as a coward!

Of the charge that the Republican party are preparing at Washington to abandon the Union, it is too excessively stupid to require reply.

"The lightning should blast the wretch who only hopes to rise on his country's ruin"

Capture of Fort Donelson—Reception of the News at Washington.

When Gen McClellan received the dispatch announcing the fall of Fort Donelson, he was sitting in his private room with Gov. Curtin of Pennsylvania, the latter consulting relative to the disposition of ten Pennsylvania regiments still at Harrisburg. The General apologized for reading the dispatch, which he did with a strong but suppressed emotion — Gen McClellan then took the dispatch to Secretary Stanton on foot through the rain. There were some few spectators assembled at the War Department Gen. McClellan in breathless haste hardly announced the fact, when Secretary Stanton threw up his hat and proposed three cheers, which were given amid the greatest excitement

The announcement of the great victory of Fort Donelson to Congress by Gen McClellan caused the most frantic excitement In the Senate, the audience which crowded the galleries rose and gave one tremendous cheer, which was followed by repeated ones when the Vice President said such demonstrations did not interfere with the business of the Senate Great laughter was caused by the announcement of the fact that Floyd stole away

In the House the scene was equally enthusiastic During the reading of the brief but intensely exciting dispatch just sufficiently long, and fraught with tidings to stir the hearts of all patriotic men there was an evident effort to restrain the feelings which at its conclusion burst forth in a ringing cheer and clapping of hands such as were never heard in the hall before For the first time the professional etiquette of the reporter's gallery was broken, and this at all times orderly, amid the disorderly portion of the house, echoed with the notes of joy which in full volume rose from floor to galleries In vain the punctilious Speaker struck his gavel to bring back the House to order None could see the impropriety or infraction of rules in such an indulgence of patriotic feelings, and the rejoicing went on unconfined upon the floor. Members sprung frantically from their seats and rushed around Mr Colfax as a common centre, he retreating to the open space outside the seats Here congratulations went on apace as the dispatch went from hand to hand Amid the throng the venerable member from Kentucky, Mr Crittenden, with his gray hairs, was most distinguishable, and for some minutes, wherever he moved, he encountered the outstretched hands of his compeers, who congratulated him on the glorious event which had cleared Old Kentucky of the rebels, who had so long held in thrall the Union people of his native State; and heartily, and with a beaming face, did the old patriot respond to the general feeling The Speaker had a busy time of it with his carping gavel, but for some time to no purpose, as it was felt that there was no indecorum committed in such a demonstration of joyous and loyal feeling over the victories of the Union

According to the notions of the very democratic Advertiser all these men, including the venerable Mr Crittenden, who rejoiced at the great federal victory at Fort Donelson, "ARE WORSE THAN TRAITORS"

This Advertiser is the organ of Joe Lane, and wants his followers to attend Joe Lane democratic meetings! Honest citizens will find that "they can't handle pitch without being defiled"

From Victoria.

We have Victoria papers, including the 4th April

The steamer Otter left Victoria on the 1st for New Westminster with about 190 passengers—miners and 75 tons freight

The bark N S Perkins had arrived from San Francisco, with freight and ten passengers.

The small pox is among the Indians at Victoria As there is a dense Indian population about the city, it is advised that prompt measures be taken to arrest the extension of the disease

There had been a great excitement at Victoria about the newly discovered Stickeen mines The Times says that people now become cautious and many persons have abandoned the idea of going to Stickeen.

The Colonist of the 4th April notices the arrival of a miner from Fort Yale He says that in coming in he met 60 miners on foot He did not believe that the Frazer river would be opened to Yale before the middle of April.

Several miners at Victoria had received letters from their friends who started for Cariboo, but who were delayed at Douglas, advising them to remain at Victoria for at least two weeks longer

The schr W L Richardson was at Nanimo, where she was taking in a cargo of coal for Portland

The Olympia Standard is in favor of the division of Washington into two territories—the dividing line to run directly north of the eastern Oregon boundary line The editor says that the tract of country cut off from Oregon and attached to Washington was thus attached for temporary purposes, and the fact that that territory has been found to be a great mining region—that it will soon be filled with a large mining population—who will have interests diverse from those of the territory below, seems to show that now is the proper time for making it a distinct territory.

How to go to the Mines —Ramsden's Pioneer Line of Steamers on Sumpter River Route Cut off the time running regular and should not fail to attract the attention of old and experienced miners and country traders generally who have ever from motives of economy failed to patronize this line Therefore we would call the attention of the above to the fact that we have fully made arrangements with the proprietors of Ramsden's Pioneer Line of Steamers to run in connection with our Express Train from Umatilla Landing to Auburn, thereby saving to passengers all difficulty of crossing the Blue Mountains, and the delay of from two to three days, as heretofore. From the above connection we are now prepared to forward passengers and freight to Auburn, Sumpter Valley, Canyon City, Powder River, Boise, Idaho City, and all other points in the Interior, with promptness and dispatch. Passengers will please call at our office, and procure their tickets before going on board the boat, as they will be charged fifty cents more if they do not. Tickets for sale at the office of the Company, at the Umatilla Landing, and on board the boats. Through tickets to Auburn, Sumpter Valley, Canyon City, Powder River, Boise, Idaho City, and all other points in the Interior, can be procured at the office of the Company, at the Umatilla Landing, and on board the boats. Apprehensions of a Slave Insurrection in North

It will be noticed that Burnside's expedition has visited Southampton county Va where the Nat Turner insurrection broke out thirty years ago A correspondent of the N Y Tribune, writing from Fenton, N C says

Serious apprehensions are entertained for fear of an insurrection at this point, and in order to allay the fears of the people and prevent the blacks from rising on their masters, Capt. Murray, in command of this squadron, addressed a few words to the negroes, who in multitudes stood upon the wharf with their eyes full of mischief, as if they were only waiting for the word to commence the bloody work

The Olympia Standard says that—"a gentleman from Port Madison informs us that a four inch plank was recently sawed at Meig's mill one hundred and seven feet in length Can that be beat in Yankeedom?"

One rose upon a bush though but a little one, and though not yet blown proves that which bears it to be a true rose tree

All men who do anything must endure a depreciation of their efforts. It is the dirt which their chariot wheels throw up!

A CARD.

I would say to my friends in the Willamette Valley and to all who are afflicted with diseases of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, that Dr J Flattery will be in Portland about April 5th and will be prepared to relieve and cure those who are thus afflicted Dr Flattery's system of inhalation has no compliment with him and satisfaction I could also tell persons sick and in the Sacrament Valley who were considered incurable, who have by Dr F's system been restored to their friends and to the enjoyment of health I say to the afflicted, try this new system and live H S PEASE

For Coughs.—The sudden change of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL, and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches" or Lozenges Let the Cold, Cough or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off Public Speakers and Singers will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice Sold by all druggists. Young Ladies, Read!

What a number of idle, useless young women—they call themselves young ladies—parade our streets! "They toil not, neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of them" Do they ever look forward to the time when the real cares and responsibilities of life will cluster around them? Have they made, or are they making any preparation for the onerous duties which will assuredly fall to their lot—duties to society, the world, and to God? They lounge or sleep away their time in the morning. They never take hold of the drudgery, the repulsive toil, which each son and daughter of Adam should perform in this world They know nothing of domestic duties. They have no habits of industry, no taste for the useful, no skill in any really useful art They are in the streets, not in the performance of duty, or for the acquisition of health, but to see and be seen—They expect thus to pick up a husband who will be as indulgent as their parents have been, and support them in idleness. They who sow the wind in this way are sure to reap the whirlwind No life can be exempt from cares. How mistaken an education do those girls receive who are allowed to imagine that life is always to be a garden of roses" Labor is the great law of our being. How worthless will she prove who is unable to perform it

It has been observed that "by far the greatest amount of happiness in civilized life is found in the home relations, and most of those depend on the home habits of the wife and mother"—What a mistake is then made by our young girls and their parents, when domestic education is unattended to! Our daughters should be taught, practically, to bake, to cook, to arrange the table, to wash and iron, to sweep, and to do everything that pertains to the order and comfort of the household. Domestics may be necessary, but they are always a necessary evil, and the best "help" a woman can have is herself If her husband is ever so rich, the time may come when skill in domestic employments will secure to her a comfort which no domestic can procure Even if she is never called to labor herself, she should at least, know how things ought to be done, so that she can never be cheated by her servants

Domestic education cannot be acquired in the streets It cannot be learned amidst the frivolities of modern society A good, and worthy, and comfort-bringing husband is rarely picked up on the pavement.

"The nymph who walks the public streets
And sets her cap for all she meets,
May catch the fool who turns to stare,
But men of sense avoid the snare"

The highest and best interests of society in the future demand a better, a more useful, a more domestic training of our young ladies

FORT BENTON WAGON ROAD.—From Mr Tochill, expressman to Lieut Mullan's Wagon Road party, we learn the following particulars of the progress of the work. The winter camp was made on the Big Blackfoot, at the junction of Hall's. Some thirty substantial log houses had been built in which the party passed the winter comfortably. Provisions were abundant, and the health of the men composing the command excellent. The party numbered fifty citizens, and a military escort of one hundred men. The winter had been comparatively mild—much warmer than in the valleys below Work on the road had not been suspended, and everything was progressing finely. The road will be placed in thorough order in time for the spring emigration, when it is computed that thousands will come that way. From the head of the Bitter Root Valley there is a good wagon road to Salmon River, which can be traveled over in three days. The adventurers from the Mississippi Valley, without doubt, will find it to their advantage to take that route. According to our informant, emigrants can reach Salmon River in ten days from Fort Benton A large number of steamboats are expected to come up from St Louis to Fort Benton in the spring, and with them a rush of emigrants All along the Missouri the excitement in relation to the Salmon River mines is intense, and a vast accession to the population of the upper country may be expected from that source The bridge over the Big Blackfoot has been completed, and the road from that point to Walla Walla is in excellent condition, and with the coming spring our people will begin to realize the benefits that are to result from the completion of this great enterprise.—Mountaineer

THE RAILROAD.—The work on the Dalles and Des Chutes Railroad has commenced in good earnest, and the indications are that this great public improvement will be completed at an early day. Several hundred tons of railroad iron has already been received at the Dalles, and judging from the ponderous weight of the bars, the structure will be of the most substantial character. The road will follow the line of Main street until it leaves the town, when it diverges to the foot of the bluff of rocks, which it passes along the full extent of Judge Laughlin's land claim From that point to the Des Chutes Landing, it will follow the line of the Columbia River The number of workmen at present employed on the road is limited, but when the work gets fully under way, the intention is to employ all the men that may offer We shall watch the progress of of this enterprise with interest, knowing as we do that its completion will mark a new era in the history of the town of the Dalles.—Mountaineer

☞ Fashionable folks have ceased to marry Now, according to Jenkins and his imitators, "they form a matrimonial alliance," upon which Susan Jane writes to Punch to inquire, "if such an alliance is to be considered offensive and defensive?" Mr Punch ventures to reply—"of fensive, when misfortune or difficulty is to be attacked and overcome, defensive when sorrow or sickness prevails; and expensive, when certain little parties, whether or not, will join in the compact."

☞ A man tried the other day to purchase a hen that would lay a brick

A woman without dissimulation is as rare as a man without vanity
